SLUMP IN "KAFFIRS."

Small Panic Due to Jewish Holidays and Settlement Day.

London, Oct. 9.—"Kaffirs" dropped heavily on the stock exchange today, under the influence of a rush of weak holders, partly due to the impending Jewish holidays, which will be followed by a settlement day.

As was the case the other day, the big operators came to the rescue, and checked the fall.

PADGETT'S DESKS FORCED

Filled With Stub Books and Accounts in Hopeless Confusion.

President Tracy Has Gone to Baltimore to Get the Key to the Combination of the Safe.

President Tracy and Acting Secretary Towner, of Columbia Typographical Union, have been busy getting together material by which to straighten out the accounts of Frank H. Padgett.

They are greatly hampered by the fact that the three safes belonging to the office are locked, and Mr. Padgett alone knows the combination. Mr. Tracy went to Baltimore yesterday, to try to get from him a clue by which the safes may be opened. He had not returned at midnight.

The desks in Secretary Padgett's office, when forced open, were found to contain a large quantity of stub books in a condition of such utter confusion as to make them useless to any one but Padgett himself. Scattered about were a number of unopened letters, some addressed to Padgett and others to various parties in his name, many of them containing money.

Some of these unopened letters are postmarked as far back as July 13, almost three months ago, which indicates that his work in this office was not very active. It is considered that the time was such as to unfit him for the transaction of business.

From the fact that but $9 is found to be on deposit and the indications that no work has been done upon the books for more than three months, the amount of Mr. Padgett's salary, if there is a salary, is placed at from $1,000 to $3,000, the former figure being the average collection for one month. This estimate may be greatly changed, or the defalcation entirely dispelled, by the discovery of unknown deposits or expenditures, when the books have been examined.

One of the stub books found, running from A. to K, it has been discovered, has not been used since last November.

It is the opinion of many printers that when the books are all accessible it will be found comparatively little money is unaccounted for. If, however, there should be a large shortage they declare Frank Padgett did not use it. He lived in moderate style, did not bet, drink, nor spend money in a fast life in any way. His personal habits were inexpensive.

One case has been found where he paid a death benefit of $210 and took no check. There may have been others, for he has not been in a condition to attend to business properly for months.

The first break was noticed soon after the New Year's entertainment last winter, for which he worked very hard. He continued to be ill from time to time throughout the winter, and in the extreme heat early in June was quite overcome. From this he never rallied. It is believed that his worry over the condition of his accounts, with the extra work of Labor Day aggravated this unfortunate until his present deplorable condition was reached.

EVANGELIST AT WORK.

Hamline Church the Center of a Religious Awakening.

The revival meetings being conducted at Hamline M. E. Church, on the corner of Ninth and P streets, by Evangelists W. D. Potter and E. F. Miller, of Chicago, are attracting widespread attention.

Every evening the church is crowded to overflowing, the congregation being made up of members of all religious denominations.

The services every evening consist of a sermon by Mr. Potter who discusses the gospel from the standpoint of a business man, and a sermon in song by Mr. Miller, who in a most interesting and delightful way tells of the love of Christ for man.

In the pulpit, last evening, with Evangelist Potter and Miller, were Rev. Dr. Todd, pastor of the church; Rev. Dr. L. B. Wilson, president of the Board of the District; and Rev. Dr. Mullin, for many years a missionary to China and Japan.

The service was opened with the singing "How Firm a Foundation" by the congregation led by a choir of 100 voices and was followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Mullin.

The scripture lesson read by Mr. Potter relates to the conversion of Paul of Tarsus, and was followed by his experiences in the old Philippian jail, told sweetly in song by Mr. Miller.

The text of Mr. Potter's discourse was from Acts xxv:24—"And as he reasoned of righteousness and temperance and the judgment to come, Felix was terrified and answered, go thy way for this time."

The subject for this evening is "Christianity and Infidelity Contrasted."

BUFFALO'S BIG SCANDAL.

Officials Arrested for Larceny and Embezzlement.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Last week charges were made to Mayor Jewett against the department of public works, and on Monday the mayor sent a message to the board of aldermen asking for authority to conduct a thorough investigation of the department.

The request was granted and as a first result warrants were issued last night for the arrest of Howard D. Herr, cashier of the department, John M. Dahany, deputy superintendent of streets, and Joseph Burke, a saloon keeper and formerly boss of a gang of street cleaners.

All three were arrested about midnight. The charge against Herr and Dahany is grand larceny, but the former, with the assistance of his two confederates is said to have padded the pay rolls with dummy names.

Other arrests are expected to-day. Confessions by employees in the gangs working on the streets are said to reveal startling things and to implicate men who would be supposed to be safe from committing theft.

FOR WIFE AND CHILDREN.

Provisions of the Will of the Late William W. Hough.

The last will with two codicils of the late William W. Hough was filed for probate with the register of wills yesterday. By the will, which was written January 29, 1894, all the property of the deceased is left to the widow, Sarah Jane Hough for the term of her life. At her death the property is to go to the six children of the deceased.

The two codicils of July 25, 1894 and May 7, 1895, respectively, so modify the will that the sum of $10,000 is directed to be raised from the sale of gas stock, and that money is to be invested in securities, the profits of which shall accrue to Margaret Hough, a son. At his death the principal reverts to his children. The remainder of the estate, by the codicils, is to be divided among the other five children of the deceased. Mrs. Hough is named executrix.

Alleged Firebug Schoenholz Placed on Trial in New York.

New York, Oct. 9.—What promises to be one of the most interesting trials that has taken place in this city in years, was begun before Judge Fitzgerald, of the court of general sessions, this morning.

It was the trial of Morris Schoenholz, charged with having fired the house at 285 East Fourth street, on the night of January 3 last. The charge is arson in the first degree.

Behind it all, and to be developed during the trial, was the whole story of how the firebug of this city have been doing their awful work for years past, as successive fires made it apparent that they were the work of incendiaries of the most desperate kind.

If convicted, Schoenholz may be sentenced to the State prison for eighty years.

MAY MEAN MUCH TO MILLER

Question of Identity Involved in a Criminal Case Before Judge Cox.

Prosecution Claims He Was Previously Convicted and Sentenced Under the Name of Boss.

Charles Miller, colored, was convicted of housebreaking before Judge Cox, in criminal court No. 1, yesterday. The court ordered the defendant's counsel, Mr. Thomas C. Taylor, to investigate certain charges, however, and if they are found true the verdict will be set aside.

Miller was accused of breaking into the stable of John W. Miller. There was nothing in the stable, it was claimed, and nothing was taken. Charles said he simply went there to sleep.

"Did you not serve a three years' sentence in the penitentiary under the alias of Charles Boss, for housebreaking?" asked Prosecution Attorney Jeffords.

"No, sir," replied Miller.

Officer Breunerman was called and testified that Miller had been convicted and sentenced to Albany Penitentiary, a colored attorney, testified the same way.

Mr. Taylor then called on Attorneys Coomes and Shillington, who defended Boss in his suit.

Both of the lawyers said they could not swear that Miller had been Boss.

James Springman, keeper of the prison, testified that he had no recollection of seeing Miller, and he swore that Miller was not Boss. The case went to the jury, with the above result.

GOING HOME TO VOTE.

New York Democrats in the Department Making Their Arrangements.

"We'll go to Indiana one better," was the key note of the meeting held last night by the New York Democrats of Washington, at the Interstate Democratic Association headquarters No. 1325 New York avenue.

The meeting was one of the largest assemblies of New York Democrats ever held here, the eight departments and the Government Printing Office being largely represented.

The last day for registration in New York, outside of the rural districts and New York and Brooklyn, is the 19th of this month, and the local Democrats hail from that State with a shout, as they serve to be there and to get there on election day.

The purpose of the meeting was to make arrangements for the transportation of their homes of the voters who wish to register and take part in the coming election in New York.

At the close of this purpose nine committees were appointed to take charge of the details, the securing of rates, and notification of the committees in charge of the voters to the coming of the reinforcements. The chairman declined to give out the names of the committees.

While there were no set speeches the discussion was none the less enthusiastic. The members are confident of carrying the State this time and all the time. One of the officers said to The Times last night that the action of some of the Democratic brethren in the last election could be characterized by no other name better than "bilious," but that the recalcitrance of the Democrats and Big Sandy rivers in the past few days, and the disease has carried off a large number of persons.

At Wayne Court House, where half of the population is afflicted, the disease is reported to be assuming a milder form, but deaths are frequent.

PASSED OFF PLEASANTLY

Election of the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

It Was Expected That There Would Be a Lively Fight—Per Capita Tax Question.

The second day's session of the annual convocation of the Knights of the Golden Eagle convened in the red parlor of the Elbitt House yesterday at 9 a. m.

The all-important matter of considering the proposition calling for a new scheme of reorganization of the order was expected to be brought up, but was postponed until the afternoon session, when it was made the special order.

The plan proposed, as has already been explained in The Times, suggests a more uniform system of taxation, by which all the States represented in the order will stand on an equal footing.

The original amendment offered by Mr. Ashford, of Delaware, called for a per capita assessment of 4 cents instead of the present plan of taxation by Castles.

At the afternoon session a lively fight was expected and the friends of both plans marshaled their forces in the hall. When the meeting was called, however, everybody was pleasantly surprised and instead of a fight they held a love feast.

When the matter was brought up a delegate from Pennsylvania, which claims a membership of 42,000, offered an amendment to the original resolution, changing the assessment from four cents to five cents per capita for all States except Pennsylvania, Ohio and New Jersey. The amendment was satisfactory to all concerned and was unanimously adopted.

The discussion of other amendments was postponed until to-day.

The election of officers resulted as follows: A. C. Little, Pennsylvania, supreme chief; W. O. Brown, Delaware, supreme vice chief; A. G. McNabb, New York, supreme scribe; A. H. Alexander, Ohio, supreme high priest; Timothy McCarthy, Pennsylvania, supreme keeper of the exchequer; William Culbertson, Pennsylvania, supreme keeper of the records; W. W. Canada, Indiana, supreme first guardian; Howard Winslow, Maine, supreme second guardian; Joseph E. Whitford, Maryland, supreme medical examiner.

To-day's session will be occupied in the consideration of the revision of the death benefit fund and in selecting the place for the next annual meeting.

The choice of place will probably cause a great deal of discussion, and the delegates from the Western States claim that as the last two meetings have been in the East it should go West this year.

However, this may be it was stated last night by a delegate in a position to know that the next convention would be held in Pennsylvania.

JAMES E. PUGH IS DEAD

to travel at a large increase in salary. He accepted and in his trips through the country became widely acquainted with Christian association work and methods.

He became convinced that his life lay in religious work, and was looking for an opportunity, when he was offered the place of local secretary here. Mr. T. A. Harding was probably as influential as any one in securing him.

DEVOTED TO HIS WORK.
After one year in that position, Mr. Pugh was made general secretary. From the first he devoted himself with great energy to the work. He and his wife made their home in the building on New York avenue, which was recently rented. They had no children and their whole lives were absorbed in developing the work and widening the influence of the association. The religious feature received their first care, and after that the educational and athletic classes.

The latter had especially prospered, and Washington ranked the two as the first in the estimation of the national convention at Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Pugh was enterprising, judicious, and full of life to young men. He had a wide acquaintance with business men of Washington and money was freely subscribed for the association work on the confidence that it would be wisely and economically spent.

The membership of the association grew rapidly under his care and had exceeded the capacity of the old building.

At the time Mr. Pugh died his furniture, but he went at once to his brother-in-law, Mr. Olmsted, and seemed not to consider his own misfortune, so busy was he pushing plans for his work. Even his illness, whenever he was in his right mind he was thinking of his work and considering what should be done when he recovered.

Mr. Pugh was a generous and a fault in aiding young men and a large part of his salary went that way. He had provided for his wife, however, by a life insurance policy.

The active pull-bearers will be named to-day. They will be young men from the association membership.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.

Action of the Alexandria City and County Democratic Committee.

The Democratic committee of the city and county of Alexandria had a meeting last night in the office of the Alexandria city works in the Markoe building, and after a wrangle of an hour and a half decided to apportion the votes in the convention on the basis agreed upon at a meeting held some weeks ago. Mr. Harley gets ten delegates, who got 992 votes for him, Mr. Bendheim six delegates, who cast 630 votes, Mr. May five delegates, with 481 votes, and Mr. Linscomb two delegates, with 216 votes.

Saturday, October 12, at 12:30 o'clock, was fixed as the time for holding the convention and the opera house as the place. Each candidate appoints his own delegates to the convention, and as 1160 votes will be necessary to a choice, none of the candidates has it. While there may be some combine among the candidates to nominate one or the other, it is not at all impossible that after a fight of two or three days, some dark horse may step in.

The board of police commissioners of Alexandria held a meeting last night, and after a session of about an hour and a half adopted a new set of regulations for the government of the police force of the city.

Mr. Samuel Tier was elected a member of the force by the fifteen cases by the resignation of Officer James Griffin, which takes effect October 15.

TYPHOID IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Its Origin Due to the Low Water Supply.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Typhoid fever has spread at an alarming extent in the vicinity of the headwaters of the Guyanote and Big Sandy rivers in the past few days, and the disease has carried off a large number of persons.

It is due to the low water supply and its being charged heavily with microbes.

At Wayne Court House, where half of the population is afflicted, the disease is reported to be assuming a milder form, but deaths are frequent.

WAS CRAZY TO FREE CUBA

One Postmaster Who Made a Government Appropriation.

Took Money From the National Treasury to Purchase and Equip a Vessel to Assist the Rebels.

Ocala, Fla., Oct. 9.—Kirby Griner, postmaster at Dunnellon, Fla., disappeared several days ago and the postal authorities at Washington have ordered an examination of his accounts, which are said to be short $1,500.

Griner, who is a young man, has taken to the sea, and it is said he has been preparing for months to join the insurgents.

One of Griner's most intimate friends is authority for the statement that the young man has been using government funds to equip an expedition to aid the insurgents.

He is said to have been buying and shipping arms to some point on the east coast for two months.

Griner was purchased a small schooner, which he ordered to cruise near the shore where the arms were stored. When he left here, his friends say, he proceeded to the east coast, loaded the arms on the schooner and left for Cuba.

Four young men, who have been intimate with Griner, left about the time he did and are said to have accompanied him to Cuba.

It is stated that Griner took twenty men with him in all, and that he had, when he left here, a captain's commission in the insurgent army.
